

Glasscock Book Completion Fellowship

Required Signatures for Application

To advance outstanding original research in the humanities and humanistic social sciences, these awards provide critical support in the form of a semester free from teaching for Texas A&M tenured faculty members who are completing monograph manuscripts for publication with a leading press. Awardees are expected to remain in residence at Texas A&M and fulfill a normal level of service as defined by their department.

Eligible faculty may apply simultaneously for a Glasscock Book Completion Fellowship and a Glasscock Internal Faculty Residential Fellowship; however, they will not be awarded both. Faculty may not hold more than one of these fellowships in any four-year period.

To be completed by Department Head (or equivalent):

If the applicant receives a Glasscock Book Completion Fellowship, I (as Department Head/Equivalent) will release the faculty member from teaching as well as major administrative/service obligations (typically defined as an assignment that carries a stipend or course release) during the residential semester. In exchange, the department will receive $7,500 (the current one-course buyout rate of the College of Arts & Sciences) in unrestricted funds from the Center to be used at the discretion of the receiving department.
