

EDUCATION ABROAD

The College of Liberal Arts encourages all students to study abroad, and consider the experience an integral part of their undergraduate experience.

Study abroad can be affordable. Financial aid applies, and there are many scholarships available from the College of Liberal Arts.

Study abroad is career preparation. An international experience develops global perspectives and the marketable skills employers desire.

Study abroad will not delay graduation. Liberal Arts majors who study abroad graduate, on average, earlier than those who remain on campus.

Need help with how to start planning for study abroad? Make an appointment with Christie Dunn through Navigate and attend Ed Abroad's Funding informational.

Discover the possibilities at the Education Abroad Fair each September, and browse programs online at <http://abroad.tamu.edu>.

Plan ahead at least two semesters

Explore programs and resources online

Consider priorities and interests

Talk with your academic advisor

Attend an Education Abroad funding session

Attend the Education Abroad Fair in September