

Ephemeris The Undergraduate Journal of Philosophy

Call for undergraduate papers Ephemeris 2022

Ephemeris is an undergraduate journal of philosophy dedicated to publishing exceptional undergraduate writing grounded in the distinct value and interest of the philosophical endeavor.

Please note Ephemeris is now available online only.

Due date for Ephemeris 2022 is February 1st, 2022

Submissions: Work may be submitted by email (ephemeris.uc@gmail.com) or use our portal at Ephemeris Portal. You should receive a confirmation of receipt shortly thereafter.

Contributions: Contributions are solicited in all areas of the philosophical discipline. Contributions should take the form of essay, article, or short note. Review articles are welcome. Please include a short abstract describing the thesis of the paper and main conclusions.

Correspondence should go to ephemeris.uc@gmail.com. For more information about Ephemeris please visit our website at _<https://digitalworks.union.edu/ephemeris>.

Current issue:

Imagination and Inseparability of Soul and Body in Aristotle
Hallie Altwies, Union College

Aristotle's Aspectual Ontology
Jacob Farris, Pennsylvania State University

A Defense of the Compatibility of Science and Religion
Daniel Lightsey, Texas A&M University

Problems in the Formulations of Kant's Categorical Imperative
Mandy Rothe, Martin-Luther-Universität, Halle-Wittenberg

Editors, Ephemeris
c/o Dept of Philosophy
Lamont House
Union College
Schenectady, NY 12308 USA
ephemeris.uc@gmail.com
<https://digitalworks.union.edu/ephemeris>