

The Drs. Grace and Henry Jameson Prize

For the Best Undergraduate Essay or Research Paper on Women

- Purpose: Initiated in 1989 by Dr. Elizabeth (Betsy) Jameson and first awarded in 1990, the prize competition honors the memory of Henry James and his commitment to the education of women. The prize continued with the support of Betsy's mother, Dr. Grace Jameson, and is now named for both of Betsy's parents.
- Criteria: Entries will be evaluated for their contribution to our understanding of some aspect of women's lives or roles, as well as for originality and clarity of presentation. Entries must be nominated and submitted by a Texas A&M faculty member.
- Eligibility: Students must be undergraduates and must have been enrolled at Texas A&M University during Spring, Summer, or Fall 2021 semester in which they wrote the essay or research paper. Students graduating before or in the Fall 2021 semester are not eligible. The essay or research paper need not have been written to fulfill a class assignment. The contest is open to all fields, but fiction and poetry are ineligible. Each student may have only one submission.
- Format: Entries must be nominated by a faculty member. Papers should be no longer than 5,000 words. The nomination form is to be completed by a faculty member and requires the student's name, email address, major, minor (if applicable), student UIN, and paper submission.
- Prize: The winner is awarded a $350 scholarship.
